(Cedar Rapids, Iowa) – July 9, 2008 – Buildings magazine, a publication of Stamats Business Media, announced that Spacesaver Corp. is a Grand Prize recipient in its 13th annual Product Innovations awards program. Spacesaver's award was announced at NeoCon® World's Trade Fair 2008 in Chicago, IL, in June.

Spacesaver is located in Fort Atkinson, WI and specializes in providing innovative storage solutions specifically designed to help decision makers better manage the unique time, space and security challenges they face today. Spacesaver received Grand Prize in the "Safety and Accessibility" category for their XTend™ Mobile High-Bay Storage System. The 30-foot (9 meter) high shelving units that compact together on motorized carriages include multiple in-aisle safety devices, an overhead anti-tip system, and an integrated order picker vehicle to ensure convenient, reliable, safe access to archived media. The breakthrough, first-of-its-kind solution is specifically designed for academic libraries and a host of commercial and government applications where there is a critical need for a highly efficient means to store and retrieve archived media off-site – and free up increasingly precious on-site space.

At NeoCon World's Trade Fair, unique products were awarded for the role they play in successful building applications. "For the past 13 years, this product awards program, exclusively for NeoCon exhibitors, has been a venue in which to recognize outstanding products that provide solutions to facility problems," said Linda Monroe, Buildings editorial director. "As in the past, we had an overwhelming response to our Call for Entries, and there were a number of exceptional products reviewed in every category. From interior finishes to floorcoverings and furniture systems, our winners represent products that offer answers to many of today's facilities-related concerns."

Spacesaver, with its XTend Mobile High-Bay Storage System was one of the prestigious award winners. Top winners are listed below. For more information about Buildings, go to www.buildings.com.
